

County Bridge Collapses

Nick Plein, Otterville, suffered a broken leg when this Pettis County Road District maintainer broke through this bridge late Monday evening. He is reported in satisfactory condition at Bothwell Hospital. The bridge, built in 1907 by the Blodgett Construction Co. of Kansas City, is on Muddy Creek near the Johnny Pace Farm southwest of LaMonte. The 100-foot steel span simply collapsed under the weight of the maintainer. Presiding Judge Henry Lamm and East Judge E. L. Birdsong, who visited the scene as workmen were removing the machine from the creek, above, declined to estimate the cost of replacing the bridge at this time. (Democrat-Capitol Photo)

Think Mitchell, Warren Met to Discuss Fortas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell is understood to have told Chief Justice Earl Warren that further public disclosure about the Fortas-Wolfson fee incident could strain relations between the White House and the Supreme Court.

The attorney general also is believed to have told Warren at their meeting last Wednesday considerably more about the incident than has been in the public eye.

In line with the Nixon administration's nonpartisan stance, Mitchell made his presentation as a lawyer and friend of the Supreme Court.

He is believed to have expanded on the account Life magazine gave of the fee offered Fortas in 1966 by the family of industrialist Louis E. Wolfson—rather than to have made some unrelated disclosure.

It is understood to be highly unlikely that Mitchell would ever attempt to bring charges against a sitting justice. And yet, the attorney general is convinced the substance of what he told Warren will stimulate enough pressure within the court to bring about Abe Fortas' resignation.

What Warren is doing with the information is a closely guarded secret.

"There never is comment on the chief justice's private conversations," said a spokesman in his office icily.

In Chicago, the Chicago Tribune said it had learned that Fortas has been given until Wednesday to resign or the Justice Department will release information that administration officials believe will lead to his impeachment.

In a story from its Washington bureau, the Tribune said the Justice Department has sent word to Fortas that he already has "been extended unusual courtesy" because of the nature of the court and the respect that must be maintained in it.

However, the story said, Fortas is not open-ended and unless he resigns the information will be released.

Meanwhile, with the court in recess, Fortas is maintaining a discreet distance—and a chipper optimism publicly.

He was scheduled to attend a regional judicial conference at Wentworth by the Sea, N.H., today.

Fortas' only public statement on the fee was the one he issued May 4: that he had been tendered a fee by the Wolfson Family Foundation, rejected it and did nothing in Wolfson's behalf.

Whiteman Open Armed Forces Day

KNOB NOSTER — Whiteman Air Force Base will open its gates to the public from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday in observance of Armed Forces Day and the 20th anniversary of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Bus tours, starting at the Base Operations building, will be offered every half hour beginning at 10:30 a.m. The tours will include visits to the Disaster Preparedness Office and a movie showing how the base would react in an emergency; an underground Minuteman silo; a hand-gun demonstration at the indoor firing range and the personal equipment section, which includes survival equipment pilots carry.

A Bell UH-1F helicopter, like those flying combat crews and equipment to and from nearby missile facilities, will be on display.

A Convair T-29 aircraft will be parked on its ramp, where visitors may climb aboard to inspect the cockpit.

Criticism Awaits Rockefeller

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller came here on a 3½-hour fact-finding mission for President Nixon today with local newspapers blasting him for spending so little time in their country.

Flying in from Mexico, the New York chief executive hailed what he called "the triumph of Guatemalan democracy" in the face of leftist guerrillas and urban terrorism.

He arrived in the capital under heavy security guard and took a helicopter to a hacienda outside the city to meet President Julio Cesar Mendez Montenegro.

La Hora, published by Vice President Clemente Marroquin

Rojas, called the visit by the New York governor and his team of more than 20 experts "useless."

"Even if he were some sort of god, Rockefeller could not learn on a lightning trip all the things the provinces need," the newspaper said in an editorial.

Local businessmen called the visit a "show," but many said they would turn out to "see what this is all about."

The governor, who is visiting 23 Latin American countries as Nixon's special envoy, spent two days in Mexico City, his first stop. He told newsmen there "the typical Guatemalan weather would not permit us to leave that country late in the evening."

With the exception of one paper known for its support of the United States, the Guatemalan press has been leveling daily editorial jabs at the Rockefeller visit. In addition to the complaints about the brevity of the stay, the papers have been charging unfair treatment from their big customer to the north.

Prensa Libre, the country's biggest daily, charged that Latin Americans are being forced to pay for last winter's shipping strike on the U.S. East Coast because American shippers have increased freight rates.

"Does Mr. Rockefeller know how many hundreds of millions of dollars we Latin Americans have to put out so that North American management—and workers—recoup the costs of the strike?" the newspaper asked.

"We do not want an over-all preferential treatment," Foreign Minister Antonio Carrillo Flores said during a long meeting attended by members of the Foreign Trade Council.

"What we want is for the U.S. to take into consideration our position as its next-door neighbor and as its fifth largest consumer and to give better treatment to some of our products."

The governor gave no indication of any specific changes contemplated in U.S. policies toward Latin America.

Six-Point Program

Draft Reforms Are Sought by Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today to set up a random, lottery system for the military draft.

Nixon recommended that 19-year-olds be subject to the first call but that they remain vulnerable to the draft for only one year rather than seven as under the existing system.

"It is my conviction," Nixon said in a message to Congress,

"that the disruptive impact of the military draft on individual lives should be minimized as much as possible, consistent with the national security. For this reason I am today asking the Congress for authority to implement important draft reforms."

The President repeated his stand that ideally there should be an all-volunteer armed force for the nation. He said he continued to believe that this ideal can be reached under more stable world conditions.

He added: "Under present conditions, however, some kind of draft will be needed for the immediate future. As long as that is the case, we must do everything we can to limit the disruption caused by the system and to make it as fair as possible."

The chief executive offered a six-point recommendation, topped by changing from an oldest-first to a youngest-first order of call so a young man would become less rather than more vulnerable to selection as he grows older.

The random system—a lottery—would be applied to all those who are vulnerable during a given year rather than to those whose birthdays fall at certain times of the year or month.

A young man normally would enter the stage of maximum vulnerability during his 19th year and leave it during his 20th year.

Senate Debate Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House apparently is seeking a Senate showdown on the battle over President Nixon's order closing 59 Job Corps centers and is looking to Dixie Democrats for the balance of power.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., says he understands the White House wants him to withdraw his counter-resolution that could blunt a move by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., asking delay on the closings.

"I have heard indirectly that they'd like me not to press it (his resolution) and have a straight confrontation on the issue," Javits told a reporter. "I understood their disposition was to let this be voted up or voted down."

Javits said, however, he is not planning to withdraw his resolution.

Monday's opening debate was strictly party-line with only Democrats speaking for the Cranston measure and only Republicans speaking against it.

Asked Monday night if Cranston's measure would carry on an immediate vote of the Senate's 57 Democrats and 43 Republicans, Javits said: "It looks that way. I would say that'll depend on whether we can unravel things tomorrow."

Nixon's move would cut the 35,000-member Job Corps nearly in half saving an estimated $100 million a year.

Cranston's resolution would ask, but not bind, the administration to delay the closings now due by July 1 until Congress can study the program and alternatives.

Javits' proposal would put the Senate on record in favor of Nixon's position, which includes the promise of another training opportunity for every enrollee and an increase in the number of youths involved.

GOP hopes for support from 16 Dixie Democrats took a setback Monday when Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., announced support for Cranston's resolution.

Opponents to the Cranston resolution say the Job Corps is ineffective.

One of them, Sen. Winston Prouty, R-Vt., said there is an attempt to picture the administration as callous to the needy.

Cranston told the Senate he just wants the administration to offer a better plan, explaining he is not defending the entire Job Corps program.

"It is imperfect, like all government programs. Changes are in order in the Job Corps. There may be a better approach to the training of these disadvantaged young people."

U.S. Cruiser Helps Silence Enemy Guns

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops made their heaviest coordinated rocket and mortar attacks from inside the demilitarized zone since American planes quit bombing North Vietnam last Nov. 1, military spokesmen reported today.

U.S. headquarters said 11 positions in the southern half of the DMZ fired more than 45 rounds of rockets and mortars Monday into allied positions stretching halfway along the 40-mile zone. But there were no reported allied casualties since the U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops were well dug in.

Marine artillery and the big guns of the U.S. heavy cruiser St. Paul in Tonkin Gulf blasted the enemy gun positions. All of the guns were silenced and forward observers reported 10 secondary explosions, indicating direct hits on ammunition stores, U.S. headquarters said.

U.S. headquarters keeps a close watch on the DMZ, since American officials say North Vietnam agreed to keep it free of military action in return for the bombing halt. Hanoi denies this, saying the bombing halt was unconditional.

Farther south along the Laotian border near the A Shau Valley, other North Vietnamese troops made a heavy attack on American paratroopers trying to choke off infiltration routes into South Vietnam. Twenty American paratroopers were killed, 65 were wounded, and their artillery base sustained "light to moderate" damage, U.S. headquarters said. Twenty North Vietnamese troops were reported killed.

In another setback in the northern provinces, North Vietnamese troops ambushed a U.S. Marine force about 20 miles southwest of Da Nang, killing 19 Marines and wounded 12. Only four enemy bodies were found.

Military spokesmen said allied forces had killed more than 1,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops during the past 36 hours and seized tons of war materials, including more than 100 weapons and six Russian trucks in the A Shau Valley.

At least 68 Americans were dead in the fighting and 291 wounded.

Head Start Employees Are Picked

The Pettis County Community Action Corp., took final action on staff recommendations for the summer Head Start program in Pettis County at a board meeting held at the State Employment Security office Monday night.

The following personnel were approved for presentation and final approval by Missouri Valley Human Resource Development Corp., of which Pettis County is a member:

Elizabeth Lois Gunn, Mrs. Phyllis Jensen, Mrs. Jane Gibson, Lillian E. Ray and Marsha Vannoy were approved as teachers.

Lee Miller, Margaret Green, Bettye J. Taylor, Barbara Jackson and Karen Vawter were appointed as teachers' aides.

Joyce Wilts was appointed as secretary, while Ollie M. Carter, Mary Sue Bishop, Barbara Taylor and Mrs. Mary Weathers were accepted as cooks in the program.

Dorothy Williams and Carolyn Smith were approved by the local board as community aid and manpower secretary, respectively.

Chance Blauer, Carrollton, director of the Missouri Valley Agency; Jack Jones, Head Start director, and Charles Thomas, Manpower director, briefly explained some aspects of their programs' objectives.

In the future it is hoped that Sedalia will have a year-round Head Start program, according to Jones, dependent upon increased funding expected for the program.

The Manpower program will include job development, placement, counseling and follow-up, according to Thomas. The object of the program is to give the unemployed or underemployed training to suit them for a better job.

A proposed budget for Missouri Valley to start Sept. 1, 1969, would include funds of $335,000 for Head Start; $60,000 for Manpower; $35,000 for Community Involvement; $180,000 for Neighborhood Youth Corps, and $46,000 for administrative, according to Blauer.

Blauer also stated that the Neighborhood Youth Corps has already been funded $66,000 for 120 enrollees for a 10-week program starting June 2.

Fear Barge Explosion's Death Toll May be High

LAGRANGE, Mo. (AP)—Two bodies were found today, but three men were still missing after an explosion Monday night of a gasoline barge on the Mississippi River.

The bodies of Glenn Maples, 41, manager of the Triangle Refineries Inc. terminal, and Albert Frieden, a dock employee, were found this morning in the river near the blast scene.

Still missing were W. C. Mitchell and Aaron Gene, both from Memphis, Tenn., and crew members of the towboat Martin, and Lewis Hagenhoff of Martinsburg, Mo., a truck driver who arrived at the terminal shortly before the explosion and has not been seen since.

Authorities reported, meanwhile, the fire aboard the barge was extinguished today after the vessel floated from its moorings and lodged against the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad bridge at Quincy.

The explosion occurred about 9 p.m. Monday as two barges, each carrying about 840,000 gallons of high-octane gasoline, were being unloaded at a floating dock about a mile from the Triangle Terminal.

The towboat captain W. R. Opitz, 37, of Memphis, was in critical condition at St. Mary's Hospital at Quincy, about 10 miles downstream from the explosion.

According to the Highway Patrol, Miller was eastbound on I-70 about two miles east of the U.S. 71 bypass when another car passed him and cut back into the lane too quickly, forcing Miller's car off the highway, where it overturned.

Seeks Support To Keep KU Free of Riots

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — An appeal for all students, faculty and administrators to have confidence that the University of Kansas can maintain order was made Monday by Chancellor W. Clarke Wescoe.

The chancellor issued a written statement after two weeks of campus unrest, climaxed by the actions of 175 anti-war demonstrators who forced cancellation of the ROTC review at Memorial Stadium Friday.

"I ask your support to assure that the university will not be a place where threats of force, of counter-force, intimidation or terrorism will prevail," Wescoe wrote.

He said more than 2,000 persons have expressed "concern that the orderly life of the university not be disrupted."

The university has pledged fair hearings for those who took part in the demonstration Friday.

Wescoe said the university disciplinary system "has worked well because it has been fair, not arbitrary or capricious, and because it has had the support of faculty, students and administrators alike."

Draft

would continue to be deferred and their year of maximum vulnerability would begin with the expiration of the deferment.

Graduate students would be allowed to complete the full academic year during which they were ordered up for induction, rather than just one term.

The National Security Council and the Selective Service director are being directed to review the whole policy of deferments and exemptions and give the President their findings and recommendations.

Nixon said the random draft plan would be established nationally but be applied locally by each draft board to meet its local quota.

Summing up, Nixon told Congress: "I believe these reforms are essential. I hope they can be implemented quickly."

The President had gone over high points of his message with Republican congressional leaders earlier in the day. One of them, House Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, said he thought the prospects of congressional approval were good.

The President said that ultimately the draft should be abolished. Only in 1948, he said, did a peacetime draft become a relatively permanent fact of life for the nation, and now a full generation has grown up under a system of compulsory military service.

Nixon set out the mechanics of his draft plan in considerable detail.

Lincoln U's Students End Their Sit-In

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—A confrontation was avoided at Lincoln University Monday night as students gave up a peaceful "sit-in" at the student union when Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth approached with a restraining order.

Representatives of the dissidents were to meet today with Dean of Students Ben Pugh.

The restraining order, issued by Circuit Judge James T. Riley, banned the students from congregating in the building which had been occupied by some demonstrators since Friday. More than 400 students, including a delegation from the University of Missouri-Columbia, were in the building when the order was issued.

Danforth had Sheriff Wyman Baysinger read the order over a highway patrol car's loud speaker. Prior to that two busloads of highway patrolmen entered the building, inspected it and left.

Danforth was booed when he read a statement saying the students would be guilty of criminal contempt if they violated the order by staying in the building.

As copies of the restraining order and Danforth's statement were distributed many students tore them into bits.

Officials of FAA Belly-Land Plane

CHICAGO (AP)—A twin-engine airplane landed on its belly at Midway Airport Monday, but the pilot and two passengers, all officials of the Federal Aviation Administration in Kansas City, escaped injury.

The landing gear failed to operate on the aircraft piloted by Browning Adams, acting deputy director of the FAA central region. The passengers were Alan Glass, division chief of airways facilities, and Norman Hudson, central region budget officer.

The men had flown to Chicago for a conference.

The plane was slightly damaged.

During 1969, engineers plan to shut off the American Falls at Niagara. It will permit close inspection of cracks and other imperfections on the face of the falls. Geologists fear that unless countermeasures are taken, erosion will slowly destroy the ancient scenic wonder.

The driver of the Plymouth said he swerved to avoid hitting a motorcycle that had pulled in front of his car and his car struck the left side of the Dodge. The right front of the Plymouth as well as the right front of the Dodge were damaged.

Accused In Hog Stealing Bound Over

A preliminary hearing for Leonard Simmons, Nelson, one of three persons charged with hog stealing in connection with the theft of more than 20 hogs from the John P. Walk farm April 17, was held in Magistrate Court Tuesday morning. After the hearing the case was bound over to Circuit Court for trial.

Robert M. LaGore and Robert A. Lea, both of Marshall, who had previously waived their rights to a preliminary hearing, testified at the Tuesday hearing and implicated Simmons as the third man involved.

Sheriff Emmett Fairfax, who apprehended the three men with the co-operation of Saline County Sheriff Henry Hoff, said the three took three sows and 25 shoats from the Walk farm, near Longwood, and eventually sold the animals at the hog market in Platte City for $640.91.

The three are free on $3,000 bond.

His Zoo Is Graced By Hippo

SEATTLE (AP)—Why would a man want to own a hippopotamus?

"Oh, I don't know. It's better than owning a cheetah," said Allan E. Smith, Seattle realtor who has bought a 2,000 pound hippo for his Plain, Wash., ranch.

When Smith went to an animal dealer here to buy a cheetah, the dealer offered him an elephant. They settled on a hippopotamus.

Her name is Gertrude. She's a Denver native, whose older sister resides at Seattle's Woodland Park Zoo.

"Amazing as it may seem, Gertrude has a personality that's out of this world," said Smith. "She expresses affection by opening her mouth and letting you rub the inside of it."

Gertrude has joined a growing menagerie on the Smith ranch which also harbors llamas and Scottish longhorn cattle. Smith also is thinking of buying some kangaroos.

"I just like animals," he said. The ranch produces only alfalfa and timothy hay commercially. The animals are for Smith's pleasure.

"Hippos are very economical for their bulk," he says. "More economical than an elephant." She stows away half a bale of hay each day plus vegetable trimmings from a Leavenworth, Wash., market.

When she arrived at the ranch last month, Gertrude lived in the basement of the barn, sleeping in an insulated stall. Ranch manager Bert Stegan dug a six-foot-deep pit near the barn and filled it with water, and Gertrude spends most of her time there these warmer days.

This winter, Smith plans to convert half the barn basement for her.

"I'm planning on getting a couple of kangaroos to keep Gertrude company during the winter," said Smith.

"She gets very lonely."

Would Favor Fewer Members At Convention

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP)—Delton L. Houtchens, Democratic state chairman, suggested today the number of delegates to the 1972 Democratic National Convention be cut in half.

"I have heard many Democrats object to the large number of delegates to the National Convention," he said in a statement prepared for a regional session on the McGovern commission studying party structure and delegate selection.

Houtchens said he would announce in a few days a state commission composed of one member from each of the 10 congressional districts and five at-large members to develop a new state party constitution and by-laws "with special emphasis on delegate selection and necessary reform in party structure."

He said the state commission would hold hearings around Missouri to get advice from all interested Democrats.

Houtchens said he and Gov. Warren E. Hearnes "firmly believe that the Democratic party in this state can and must take the necessary steps for reform within the party machinery to guarantee more meaningful citizen participation in the affairs and day-to-day operation of the party."

"The Democratic party in this state as well as the nation can and must improve the grassroots participation in the party."

Study of Unrest On Campus Planned

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—The House Education Committee has decided to sponsor a joint Senate-House committee plan to study campus unrest.

Before the committee were several bills that would have penalized students and teachers participating in college disorders. The interim study plan was endorsed instead.

The action came after a week-end of turmoil at Lincoln University.

Lost Finger Part Of Hold-Up Effort

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)—Allen Daugherty returned to his Wyandotte County home Monday night and found two men inside ransacking the place while a woman waited in a car outside.

The prowlers, armed with revolvers, confronted Daugherty in his kitchen. But he dashed out the side door and the men dived out a back window, taking curtains, glass and all in a 12-foot drop to the ground.

Daugherty said he saw the woman speeding off alone in the car.

Moments later, there was a gunshot and a neighbor heard one of the prowlers exclaim as he fled on foot:

"Hell, I shot my finger off."

Benefits Paid Pettis County Are Reported

Monthly Social Security benefits paid in Pettis County last year totaled $431,000, not $431 per recipient as previously reported, according to C. Kent Charles, district manager. He said the payments reflected a 3.8 percent increase over the February, 1968, figure.

He said 954 persons under the age of 60 are receiving benefits in the county. Of those, 519 are under 18 years old, 79 are in the 18-21 age group and 356 are in the 22-59 group.

Payments in area counties totaled $171,000 for 2,322 recipients in Benton County; $188,000 for 2,402 people in Cooper County; $322,000 for 4,246 people in Henry County; $287,000 for 3,716 in Johnson County; $355,000 for 4,538 people in Lafayette County; $149,000 for 2,065 people in Moniteau County; $161,000 for 2,128 people in Morgan County; and $374,000 for 4,827 recipients in Saline County.

According to Charles, two-thirds of the increase resulted from higher benefit rates authorized by the 1967 amendments to the Social Security Act. The remainder of the increase was simply due to a greater number of beneficiaries.

Total benefits paid to Missourians under Social Security in 1968 came to $632,475,000, instead of the $52,427,000 reported by the Social Security Administration.

Ann Landers

Teens Campaign Against Smoking

Dear Ann Landers: This letter should be of interest to "Smokehouse Secretary" and others who resent being gassed by inconsiderate slob who smoke and think everyone else should put up with it. Help is on the way!!

Sixty-four teen-agers in Bakersfield, California are conducting an advertising campaign which we created ourselves. Our aim is to make smoking look dumb and ridiculous instead of glamorous. We call the project "Smoke Out". Here's what we are doing. We have launched a full-scale advertising campaign — mostly radio and TV. We got started with the help of the Kern County Inter-Agency Council on Smoking and Health.

We have buttons, book covers and bumper stickers which say "Smoke-Choke-Croak." Here's one of our radio commercials: "Worried about the population explosion? Have a cigaret." Another: "Don't smoke in bed. You might burn a hole in your lungs."

One of our TV commercials shows an elegantly gowned woman — smoking. A voice says, "She Smokes." Then there's a shot of burning trash. Another voice says, "So does the city dump."

Our project is a tremendous success out here in Bakersfield and we hope it spreads to other communities.—Gloria Zigner, Project Coordinator.

Dear Gloria: So do I. As a non-smoker who has croaked and choked on other people's cigaret smoke for too many years, I am delighted with your project.

I urge teen-agers in other cities who want information on how to get started to write to: Smoke Out, P.O. Box 4, Bakersfield, California, 93302. And now, you readers out there who are under the impression that our country's teen-agers divide their time between smoking marijuana, roaming in gangs and committing mayhem on the city's streets, please read this again.

Dear Ann: Our G. I. son is bringing home an Oriental bride. His father and I, his sisters and their husbands have talked it over and agree to make her feel welcome.

Some of the aunts and uncles are upset about the marriage and have let us know that they have no intention of accepting her. This means our son will not be welcome in their homes either.

Our two daughters married out of their faith. It was a blow to us but we have grown to know and love both young men and they are wonderful husbands and fathers. Accepting a daughter-in-law of another race is more difficult, but we are prepared to do whatever we can to make the girl feel loved and wanted.

The problem: What can we do about the members of the family who have let us know that they do not approve of this marriage? Our son is unaware of their feelings. Shall we tell him? —N.J.

Dear N.J. Tell him what? That some of his relatives don't wish to meet his wife?

Why be the bearer of such news as that? Say nothing and let your son call all the family when he returns. Those who do not wish to see him will tell him so. Stay out of it.

Credit Card Bonanza

Fraudulent use of credit cards is costing American firms and their legitimate customers at least $20 million a year.

Service stations, department stores, hotels and restaurants are the chief targets of bogus credit card holders, says Pinkerton's, Inc. More than 16,000 fraud cases in a single year have been reported by the major oil companies alone.

There is no mystery about the phenomenon. There are 400 million of the little plastic oblongs now in circulation in the country and some $5 billion in charged purchases are made with them each year.

A stolen, found or otherwise acquired card in the wrong hands — or in the hands of a theft ring to which a card is fenced — is better than a blank check. A fantastic amount of purchases can be made before the loss of a card is reported by its rightful holder and the company that issued it can alert its retail outlets.

The potential purchasing range, both economic and geographical, of a single credit card will vastly increase in the future. Cards issued by airlines, banks and the petroleum, retail, travel and entertainment industries may be standardized and interchangeable by next summer, reports the USA Standards Institute. These firms are the major issuers of credit cards.

This will add even greater reason for card holders to take a few sensible precautions to protect themselves:

— Don't carry more cards than you need or can use, especially on business trips or vacations out of the area in which you reside.

— Keep not-in-use cards in a safe place and retain a list of the cards and numbers registered to you.

— Carry credit cards in a separate holder, not in your wallet. Driver's licenses and other identifying papers most people carry in their wallets or billfolds make stolen credit cards even more valuable to the crooks.

— Report a lost card immediately. As printed on the reverse of most credit cards, the holder is responsible for all merchandise and services obtained by any person "whether or not authorized by the holder." Cards will continue to be honored until the issuing firm receives written notice of loss or theft.

Best way is with a registered letter, with return receipt requested, as this will serve as a record that the loss has been reported.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Backstage Hassle Over Otto Otepka

By DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Some significant developments have been taking place backstage regarding Otto Otepka, the onetime State Department official dropped by both Democratic and Republican secretaries of state for leaking security classified papers to Sen. Tom Dodd of Connecticut.

First development took place inside the Senate Judiciary Committee last week. Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., tried to push confirmation of Otepka to the $36,000 job on the subversive activities control board. Nixon had appointed him to this post, at Dirksen's urging — quite a promotion from his old $14,000 State Department job.

When Dirksen made this move at a closed-door session, Sens. Ted Kennedy of Massachusetts and Joe Tydings of Maryland asked to see a transcript of the Otepka hearings. They knew that a subcommittee very friendly to Otepka, including Sen. Dodd to whom he leaked the papers, had passed on his qualifications. And they suspected he had been asked no penetrating questions about his Nazi friends.

Sen. Dirksen tried to brush Kennedy and Tydings aside. But Chairman Jim Eastland, D-Miss., ruled that the senators had a right to read galley proofs of the hearing. So a vote was delayed. It comes to a head this week.

Second development was revelation of a conspiracy to establish a new security network with Otepka at the top.

Third development was concrete evidence that Otepka has been extremely close to the Neo-Nazi movement in the United States.

Thus, as a member of the subversive activities control board, charged with ruling on subversive organizations, Otepka would be called upon to pass upon the activities of his closest friends and could protect them.

—Nazi Links to Otepka—

It has now been established beyond any possible doubt that the Liberty Lobby was one of the most indefatigable champions of Otepka. It has further been established beyond any doubt that the Liberty Lobby is a front for the Neo-Nazi movement.

At first an effort was made to conceal the links between the Liberty Lobby and the Neo-Nazis. Their private link was Willis Carto, founder of both. Now, however, the Liberty Lobby is publicly pushing the sale of paperback editions of "Imperium," the new "Mein Kampf" of the Nazism in the United States.

The link between Otepka and the Liberty Lobby has never been concealed. Liberty Lobby produced and distributed a film, "The Otepka Case." Liberty Lobby bulletins have consistently defended Otepka, consistently hammered his critics.

However, the conspiracy to set up a new security organization is the most significant development of all.

The subversive activities control board to which Otepka is being appointed has been inactive for years. It hasn't heard a single case of subversion. However, rightwing senators plan to revitalize it under Otepka's leadership.

To this end they have already made Otepka's former assistant, John Norpel, Jr., research director of the Senate Internal Security Committee.

Furthermore, they plan to pass a new Internal Security Act, S. 12, giving Otepka new powers to conduct witch hunts.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., an author of S. 12, describes it as follows: "The proposed Internal Security Act of 1969, now pending in the Senate would set up a central security agency for all agencies of government, under control of the subversive activities control board.

"If this legislation passes," says Thurmond, "Mr. Otepka will once again deal with security evaluation, not only for the State Department, but for all the government."

These are some of the vital issues to be discussed behind the closed doors of the Senate Judiciary Committee. The public will not be present. Later, presumably, the issues will also be discussed on the Senate floor.

—The Justice Corps—

David Berger, former district attorney of Philadelphia, has worked out a new angle to cure crime in the inner cities. It's the "Justice Corps," patterned after the Peace Corps, to work with youngsters in the ghettos.

"Most people view the police and the district attorney's office as their enemy," says Berger. "We have to reverse that and make them think of the police and the district attorney as their friend. They should be symbols of justice, not oppression. If people are in trouble, they can come to the police. They can come to the district attorney."

"But we have to work at this — hence the Justice Corps."

Berger has started with the enlistment of Chet Walker, famous basketball star of the Philadelphia 76ers, to serve as director of the Justice Corps. The new organization is going to start seeking out injustice and trying to rectify it before it causes unrest and dissension.

—Teacher Goldwater—

Likeable Sen. Barry Goldwater, whose conservative outlook is as hardrock as the landscape of his native Arizona, has taken the Senate's Republican freshmen under his wing.

By his standards they are flaming liberals, but he doesn't seem to be trying to convert them to his conservative philosophy. He merely wants to help them overcome the bewilderment he encountered when he first came to the Senate.

He recalled to friends how his hands sweated and his knees knocked the first time he rose in the Senate to address the chair.

"I was scared to death," he confided. He didn't know how to proceed, what parliamentary pitfalls to avoid.

Guest Editorial

MEMPHIS COMMERCIAL APPEAL: Generation Gap. — Occasionally there appear exceptions to the generation gap.

The other night they had a rock-and-roll show at the Mid-South Coliseum featuring acid, which has been defined as "a lot of noise and a lot of slashing lights." Midway through the evening, reports one of the teenage boys present, the youngster sitting next to him went sound asleep.

And that indicates either boredom or an appreciation for slumber, one of the finer things of life. Maybe there's hope.

Cigarette Ads

If cigarette commercials are eventually banned from television and radio by edict of the Federal Communications Commission, it will cost the broadcasting industry some $225 million in annual revenues.

That is a sizable hole in any industry's pocket. There remains, however, one hitherto untapped source of revenue which the broadcasters are reportedly considering to fill the gap.

"If FCC succeeds in banning cigarette ads, we just might consider hard-liquor clients," one network executive is quoted by the Health Bulletin.

Currently, liquor ads are kept off the air by two voluntary codes. It seems highly doubtful that the industry will risk arousing public wrath by abandoning the codes, and perhaps end up with the FCC promulgating a second ban to include liquor.

If worse comes to worst and their tobacco revenue goes up in smoke, the broadcasters will just have to try to do the best they can with what they've got. Possibly they could beef up their deodorant or toothpaste advertising.

These are examples of products that don't injure anyone; they just make a lot of viewers sick.

Youths Refuse to Work but Want 'Instant Everything'

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

A Negro physician talked in discouraged tones to this reporter recently about the failure of his efforts to lure young black men into the study and practice of medicine.

Said he:

"They would welcome the rewards and the status that go with being doctors. But they want to fly over. They do not want to do the hard work involved. They do not want to study chemistry and calculus and the other difficult subjects along the way."

The note the physician struck has been heard many times in the last several weeks in interviews with people in many walks of life. A good share of the interviewees were liberals presumed to be highly sympathetic to the aspirations of impatient youth. Nevertheless, they laid on the same charge—often with equal weight against white and black youth.

The quest is for "instant" everything—power, affluence, status, privilege—without regard to training, experience or other qualification.

The Negro doctor was understanding of young Negroes' somewhat agitated bid for "black studies," insofar as these are linked symbolically with a search for identity in a world where they have been engulfed by white culture and white authority.

He did not see such studies, however, as any kind of substitute for the knowledge both young blacks and young whites must acquire, in steadily mounting volume, if they are to have any role at all in the solving of the nation's real problems of poverty, health, malnutrition, educational deficiency and general urban conflict.

The present high scale of militant student agitation over black studies and related issues on college campuses suggests that the matter is getting badly out of focus.

Victories that have to do with the symbols may provide important psychological benefits. But they do not do the hard work toward fitting students for the problem-solving work that is crying to be done. They do not fill the chasm where vital jobs in health care, education, urban development, engineering and law are going begging by the tens of thousands.

The anger of frustrated, alienated blacks is something all Americans are coming to understand. Perhaps this fury must somehow spend itself before many can be expected to look past the symbols and dig in to train themselves to grapple with the world of practical problems.

A cool, stocky Negro administrator in a well-financed health center set down in the midst of crushing poverty has large sketches of certain black militants adorning his office walls.

Maybe they recall his own past—or simply remind him that the strident voices are still around in good force. But they are not for him today:

"You come to feel that anger and confrontation are just not enough, that you have to act to get something done."

By "something" he did not mean a cowering university president's approving signature affixed to a black students' dictated list of "nonnegotiable demands." He meant something real, concrete and specific which would help to improve health, correct malnutrition, ease poverty or heighten education.

The continent-wide charity game of the American Contract Bridge League produced some very interesting hands this year. The expert analysis of hand No. 1 was that South would wind up at one no-trump or East at two hearts. A good North-South score would be one no-trump making three or four and a good East-West score would be two hearts bid and made.

We watched one South get a nice top because he was crowded in the bidding by his opponents. The club opening and diamond overcall were normal. East's jump to two hearts was one of those modern nuisance bids described as "pre-emptive jump responses." It was pre-emptive but South refused to be pre-empted out of the action. He made an overbid of two no-trump and North raised to game.

West's heart opening was won by East's ace. The club return went to West's king and a second club was won by dummy's queen. South came to his hand with a heart. He led his nine of diamonds and let it ride. East collected a surprise trick with his jack but South didn't care. He knew that he was in a fine contract and wanted to guard against the slight chance that West had started with all four missing diamonds.

East led his last club. South was in with the ace. He led a second diamond and finessed dummy's queen. There was no problem about the king of diamonds. West needed it for his opening bid. When the queen of diamonds held, South claimed the rest of the diamonds suit for his nine tricks and gave West the last two tricks with the ace of spades and a good club. Three no-trump was enough. He didn't need the overtrick.

Sino-Soviet Border Events May Be Key to Viet Peace

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

What happens on the Sino-Soviet border the next six months may determine how and when the Vietnam war is settled.

If the Moscow-Peking quarrel heats up sufficiently, the theory runs in some government quarters here, the pressure will be on Ho Chi Minh to settle.

Rearming his southern invasion forces with the very practical AK 47s and with a family of highly efficient weapons has made Ho's forces more formidable on the battlefield.

But these arms also make him overly dependent on the Soviet Union and Communist China.

If Ho's two principal foreign backers face a showdown, he may find his military-economic support cut to a sliver. For China and Russia would consider their showdown more pressing than the Vietnam war.

As indicated above, a cutoff of Russian and Chinese weapons, supplies and ammunition would emasculate Ho's military operations in South Vietnam.

This explains why some administration Vietnam watchers spend a part of their time feeling the pulse of Mao Tse-tung's quarrel with Leonid Brezhnev.

It's not the open fighting over an island that interests these American watchers. They don't expect open war. What some are looking for is more subtle — a Chinese attempt to create a Vietnam in parts of the vast eastern Soviet territories populated by tribesmen.

In a number of areas, members of the same tribes live on both sides of the border — in both Russian and Chinese areas. It would be relatively simple for Chinese-trained men and women to infiltrate the Soviet Union's east, set up underground cells, foment disorders.

The modern Soviet armies would be faced with the same sort of problems the U.S. and South Vietnamese and Korean armies face in Vietnam.

Since 1927, Mao has believed Russian techniques and the Russian approach to communism were wrong.

The Russians have, time and again, attempted to assert their power in China and in the Chinese Communist party. Over the years, Mao's strongest rivals within China have been men with Russian backing or Russian connections.

After the death of Stalin, Mao has considered himself the true leader of world communism. Here, too, Russia stands in his way.

Moscow thus endangers Mao's position, both at home and abroad.

By Mao's reasoning (based on past observation of how this ingenious man operates) it would be very fitting indeed, if he could, with ragged Asian tribesmen create a "Russian" Vietnam that Moscow could not solve with its sophisticated weapons, economic power and "modern" Communist techniques.

Mao could then say to Communists worldwide and to his people at home — Moscow's methods do not work. You must follow Mao to win.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

So You Want To Be a Dentist

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: I'm a senior in high school and want to become a dentist. What dental school do you recommend? Are scholarships available? What dental specialty would you recommend? — R. Eastman.

DEAR MR. EASTMAN: Thank you for your note inquiring about a career in dentistry. I believe you're wise in choosing dentistry for your life's work. Dentistry is an exciting and rewarding profession in many ways, particularly because of the warm, inner, personal feeling of satisfaction in being needed and wanted by your fellowman, and in helping him fulfill his basic need — good health.

Of course, you realize that after graduation from high school you must complete two to four years of pre-dental (college) education prior to acceptance by a dental college. Another basic requirement is passage of the dental aptitude examination.

There are 50 dental colleges in the United States and it would be difficult to recommend THE ONE for you. While all dental colleges must meet educational standards of the American Dental Association and all prepare their graduates for the general practice of dentistry, they differ in "flavor and accent."

Your choice may also be influenced by location of the college, tuition costs and other fees. State colleges usually cost less for residents of the state.

For information about dental colleges and requirements write to: American Dental Association, 211 East Chicago Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Ask them for a catalogue of dental colleges in the United States and for information regarding high school summer internship programs, scholarships, fellowships, post graduate internships, armed services' programs, cost of education, etc.

Selecting a specialty at so early a stage in your career is hardly appropriate. Only after you've had training and experience in all branches of dentistry during your professional education can you make a wise and satisfying selection.

There are many specialties in dentistry and most of them are in dire need of many hundreds of additional practitioners.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q — I made a mistake on my return and failed to claim a deduction to which I am entitled. Can I file for a refund on this even though I have not received the refund I requested on my original return?

A — Yes, you can correct this filing error now even though the refund on your original return has not arrived. Obtain a copy of Form 1040X from your local IRS office and follow the instructions on this form for correcting the mistake. You will receive a separate refund for the additional amount claimed.

Q — Should I keep the extra forms you sent me for 'estimated tax'? I only needed one to make my declaration.

A — Yes, the other three pre-addressed voucher forms in the estimated tax package should be used for your remaining estimated tax payments. Be sure to keep your estimated tax worksheet since the figures on it will be used to determine your payments.

A reminder notice will be sent to taxpayers in advance of the quarterly payment due in June.

Bob Hope Eyes New Schedule

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "From now on call me 'Cool Eye Luke,'" Bob Hope said cheerfully. "I'm having it monogrammed on all my towels."

America's favorite quipster sounded chipper over the telephone from his Palm Springs home. He was having a few days of enforced rest after his second treatment for an eye ailment this year.

Last week he was released from New York's Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center, where he underwent "exonarch photocoagulation" to cauterize tiny blood vessels that had burst in his left eye.

"They zapped it with that beam," said Hope. "Man, I can't live without that fix."

Beneath the quips there seemed to be an undercurrent of concern, plus impatience with anything that slows down the furious Hope pace. He was relieved to learn that except for the eye he was in excellent health.

Before his release from the hospital, Hope was lectured by an internist — "he put me down like a little boy." The essence of the lecture: that Bob can't expect at age 65 to have a rehearsal, golf game and show in the same day. "Okay, I'll cut out the show," Hope replied.

He received more instructions from his wife Dolores on the plane trip to California. Finally he said, "Don't bug me; I've already had it from the doctor. These lectures are worse than the operation."

He and Dolores went immediately to his Palm Springs hideaway, which is the only place he can escape from the multifarious Hope enterprises. He admitted that he has done some serious thinking on the desert.

"My only problem is to keep away from hypertension," he remarked. "I don't have high blood pressure, but when I get in a condition of fatigue, those vessels in my eye can pop. Looking back on it now, I can see how it happened each time."

One of the busiest performers in show business, Bob has long been noted for remaining calm in any situation. But twice this year he blew his cool and the eye hemorrhage followed.

Within a day or so after both incidents, Hope saw "a network like a spider's web" cover his eye. The last time it happened was while he gave the commencement address at the University of Miami.

To prevent a recurrence, Hope vows to be Cool Eye Luke. Or so he claimed as he prepared to depart for a benefit in Omaha.

The second came when a cat crawled on top of a substation regulator, causing the regulator to malfunction.

Emile Griffith Captures Fight Over 'The Kitten'

NEW YORK (AP) — "Good fight, Emile," said middleweight champion Nino Benvenuti of Italy.

"You'll fight me, Nino?" asked Emile Griffith. "Sure," replied Benvenuti. So it looks like a fourth middleweight title fight is in the works between the two arch-rivals, probably for September in New York although nothing is on paper today.

Griffith earned the shot by coming from behind to beat cut-prone Stan "Kitten" Hayward of Philadelphia on a decisive, unanimous 12-round decision at Madison Square Garden Monday night.

But it took a cut over Hayward's left eye in the fifth round to open the gates for the 3-1 favored Griffith's victory.

Hayward, who had outpointed Griffith in Philadelphia last Oct. 29, had rocked the former welterweight and middleweight champion with a stunning right to the jaw in the fourth round and was outboxing the grim New Yorker at this stage.

But when the wide cut on the Kitten's left eyebrow was opened in the fifth and blood streamed from the gash, Griffith took charge and dominated the fight from then on.

Referee Arthur Mercante and judge Tony Castellano each had Griffith the winner in rounds 8-4 while judge Johnny Dran had it 9-3 for Griffith. The Associated Press card had Griffith in front

8-4. "It was Griffith all the way," said Benvenuti, who took the title from Emile a second time here 14 months ago. "He would have won even if Hayward was not cut. Griffith looked slower but stronger since I fought him."

Griffith bled in to work over Hayward's body and to prevent him from getting too much punching room.

"I couldn't get set for more than one punch the way he worked," said Hayward. "Then when I was cut, I couldn't see out of the eye for several rounds. I think I'll have an operation to get the scar tissue removed."

Benvenuti came down from his training camp at Grossinger, N.Y., to watch the fight. The handsome Italian is training for a nontitle 10-rounder at the Garden May 26 with Dick Tiger, the former middleweight and light heavyweight champion from Biafra.

Hayward weighed the agreed limit of 161 pounds after sweating off 1½ pounds within two hours after the first weighin. Griffith weighed 155. A crowd of 8,126 paid $39,509.

Royals Return

CLEVELAND (AP) — Hopes that Ken Harrelson would lift the Cleveland Indians out of their slump have not been fulfilled as he tries to break out of a slump of his own.

The Indians had only one victory in nine games in their worst start in years when they acquired the 1967 American League runs batted in champion from the Boston Red Sox in a six-player swap April 19.

Acquisition of the Boston slugger caused a surge of hope in the breast of many a Cleveland fan, and Manager Alvin Dark stated that Harrelson is the kind of guy who "can take this team and turn it right around."

Sixteen games later the Indians have a 4-21 record for an incredible .160 average, and the Hawk is battling to climb out of a slump during which his batting average has dropped 41 points.

Harrelson came to the Indians with a .239 average and now it is down to .198. He has had seven hits, including one homer, and four runs batted in, in 45 at bats since donning a Cleveland uniform.

The Hawk says the team slump bothers him more than his own.

"If the team was winning, it wouldn't bother me," Harrelson said Monday night as the Indians, who were idle Monday, prepared to take off for Kansas City. "When they're losing ... that makes it doubly hard to take."

"I'm working as hard as humanly possible to break out of the slump."

When this happens, you've got to work hard."

A club aide confirmed that Harrelson has been taking so much extra batting practice he developed blisters on his hands.

"He had to wear two batting gloves in a game the other day the blisters were so bad," publicist Ed Uhas reported.

"Maybe another week and I'll be out of it," Harrelson said hopefully.

NFL Has the Most In Television Packs

NEW YORK (AP) — The pro football realignment for 1970 was a major step toward equalizing the television packages that Commissioner Pete Rozelle will try to peddle this summer.

The National Conference, including 13 of the current NFL teams, still will have the edge in top television markets with seven of the top 10. However, it shares two of them (New York and San Francisco-Oakland) with the new American Conference, which will be seen in five of the 10.

Of equal importance to the networks is the move of Cleveland and Baltimore into the AFL-oriented group because it provides midwest interest, which has been minimal, and also adds punch to the southern market where the Baltimore Colts once ruled the roost.

In other years, a Chicago Bear fan who was looking for a game to watch when the Bears were home and he was in the blacked out area, had little interest in most AFL offerings. Now he will be able to watch a Cleveland or Baltimore game, presumably on another network.

When Rozelle goes shopping for his new television contracts he will be asking for more money than the current deals. The AFL gets $36 million for five years or about $7.2 million a year. The NFL gets $18 million a year. All contracts expire with the end of the 1969 season.

The television proceeds per club average about $800,000 to AFL teams and $1.2 million to NFL teams. To raise all clubs to the $1.2 million level, the new contract would have to call for an additional $4 million.

Presumably the networks now holding the rights, NBC for the AFL and CBS for NFL, will be contacted by Rozelle before any other network is approached. The new Hughes Sports Network, formerly Sports Network, could be a dark horse contender.

The new alignment will find the National Conference of the NFL with these top television markets: 1, New York. 2, Los Angeles. 3, Chicago. 4, Philadelphia. 6, Detroit. 7, San Francisco-Oakland. And 10, Washington.

The American Conference will have these markets: 1, New York (shared by Jets and Giants). 5, Boston. 7, San Francisco-Oakland (shared by Raiders and 49ers). 8, Cleveland and 9, Pittsburgh.

Brown is Traded

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bob Brown now is a happy man, which means there'll be plenty of unhappiness for the Los Angeles Rams' opposition. "I'm so ecstatic I can hardly find words to describe my feelings ... I just feel great," the 27-year-old All-National Football 1966 and played in the Pro Bowl in 1966 and 1967.

In Caroll and Chuy, the Eagles get a pair of sturdy veterans. Cross is an ex-Eagle being considered for an assistant coaching job with the team.

Caroll, 28, 6-foot-2 and 225 pounds, came to the Rams as a second draft choice from Notre Dame in 1962. He was not missed a game in seven years at Los Angeles.

Chuy, 27, 6-1, and 225, from Clemson, also is in his eighth NFL year. He was hampered by injuries in 1966-67.

Nettles, from Clemson, 5-10, 177, has been in the NFL four years. He played with his option last season with the Eagles.

Bob Brown

League offensive tackle said Monday after the Philadelphia Eagles trade him to the Rams in a five-player deal.

Along with the 6-foot-4, 295-pound lineman, often called the best in the business, the Eagles sent cornerback Jim Nettles to the Rams in return for tackle Joe Caroll, guard Don Chuy and defensive back Irv Cross.

The Eagles reacted quickly after Brown told them Monday morning he wanted to be traded. He had given General Manager Pete Retzlaff a trade-me-or-else ultimatum.

Brown said his refusal to play a sixth season with the Eagles was "personal," but he wouldn't elaborate.

"I have no intention of airing my grievances," Brown told newsmen after talking to Retzlaff, a former teammate. "I want to leave without recriminations, just as quietly as possible."

Retzlaff said he was "very pleased with the trade ... and I guess Bob is."

In Los Angeles, Coach George Allen of the Rams expressed complete satisfaction in the deal.

Brown was the Eagles' No. 1 draft choice in 1964. He signed for a reported $100,000 bonus out of Nebraska, where he was an All-American. He was the NFL's Rookie of the Year in 1964, was All-NFL in 1965 and

Dirty Dick In Action Tonight

Wrestling's most gruelling event — a "death" match — will head pro ring action at Convention Hall tonight.

Booked for that showdown of strength and mat skill are Tommy Martin and K. O. Cox. The two collided last week in a bruising event, with Cox scoring a highly-disputed decision.

The outcome prompted Martin to challenge the Denver heavyweight to a match in which there would be no time limit, no disqualification and falls wouldn't count. They'll battle until one can no longer continue.

Raven-haired Betty Niccoli, a saucy Kansas City girl presently in command of the women's Central States title, will renew her rivalry with brawling Jean Antone in the semifinal, set over the best of three route.

In the special event, powerful Tornado Murdock will be facing two opponents. The 265-pound Dallas wrestler, who has dominated the area ranks the last three months, will try to throw both Bruce Kirk and Sabu within 30 minutes. So confident is he that he can get the job done Murdock has posted $300 to back his boast. If he fails, it will be split between his opponents.

In the 8:30 opener, veteran Ronnie Etchison will try his best against rugged Bob Orton, another in the king-sized class at 262 pounds.

Orton, from Kansas City, Kan., is undefeated in area action and is setting his sights on the Central States crown. A victory over the versatile Etchison would boost his stock as a contender.

Rick Barry of Oakland averaged 34 points in 35 American Basketball Association games last season.

Gibson Leads Cards With Arm and Bat

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Catcher Joe Torre has a simple explanation for Bob Gibson's style: "He doesn't like to lose."

Gibson, the St. Louis Cardinals' fireballing right-hander led the Cards to a 6-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Monday night. He had a perfect night at the plate, getting three hits, drove in two runs and stole a base. He did some record-tying pitching too.

The stolen base in the eighth had Gibson chucking the most. It also had him defending the move, because the Cards were four runs ahead at the time.

"I don't believe in courtesy baseball, where you don't try to score when you get ahead," Gibson said. "When the first baseman plays behind me I'm going to run. Four runs is not one heck of a lot of a lead."

Torre had helped Gibson to his lead by doubling in one run in the first. Julian Javier drove in three runs, one on a homer off loser Claude Osteen in the fifth and two more in the seventh.

Gibson couldn't quite match that, but he tried. He hit a base-loaded single in the fourth for two runs. He had three hits and then walked the fourth time up.

"I've had four hits in a game before," Gibson recalled, "but I don't think I ever had a perfect night at the plate. I should remember something like that, but I don't."

He did recall once saying hitting was about the only fun left in the game for him. He amended that slightly.

"When I said that, I was talking about batting practice," Gibson said. "We pitchers don't get that much chance to hit."

It wasn't an entirely perfect night for Gibson. The Dodgers scored off him. Len Gabrielson doubled and scored in the fifth. Willie Davis homered in the eighth.

Still, Gibson had something approaching perfection. He tied a major league record by striking out the side on nine pitches in the seventh inning. Gabrielson was the first victim, then

Paul Popovich and finally pinch-hitter John Miller.

"I was throwing hard that inning," Gibson said. "But they were all good pitches. You don't normally do that. Usually you louse up a couple of pitches. But that inning I got them all where I wanted. I hit all the corners."

Torre, who says he's grateful because he doesn't have to face Gibson anymore, summed it all up. "He did everything tonight." Then he laughed and added, "he became the star of the game when he stole that base."

Difference of Opinion

This is the end result of what happened when New York Yankees' Bobby Murcer tried to stretch a single into a double against the Pilots, as he slid hard into Ray Oyler at second base. Both benches emptied and waged a battle for five minutes in front of the Seattle fans. (UPI)

American League Roundup

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

After two weeks in headlong retreat, the New York Yankees have stopped running and started fighting back—from a horizontal position.

The powder puff Yankees, floored by a seven-run Seattle salvo in the first inning Monday night, countered with a flurry of elbows, fists and body blocks before bowing to the Pilots 8-4 for their 13th loss in the last 15 games.

Bobby Murcer, one of the few Yanks who hasn't lost his punch, socked a two-run homer in the first inning and decked Seattle shortstop Ray Oyler with a rolling slide in the third, touching off a mass melee at second base.

Embattled Manager Ralph Houk shoved an umpire after the brawl was over and got himself tossed out of the game along with Murcer and Oyler.

Relief pitcher Fred Talbot drew a warning from Umpire John Rice for knocking down Seattle hurler Marty Pattin in the bottom of the third and catcher Frank Fernandez almost triggered another donnybrook in the fourth by bowling over Pilots' receiver Gerry McNertney on a play at the plate.

While the Yanks and Pilots battled at Seattle, the California Angels scraped past Washington 3-2 at Anaheim in the only other game on the American League schedule.

Tommy Davis' three-run double off Al Downing, who had walked the first three batters he faced, keyed Seattle's first inning spree. Jose Vidal's triple and singles by Pattin and Tommy Harper helped the Pilots rake reliever Mike Kekich for four more runs and a 7-2 lead.

Murcer, whose ninth homer sent the Yanks ahead before the deluge, came up again in the third and was brushed back by a Pattin pitch. He then singled to right and tried to stretch the hit, bowling over Oyler at second base. Oyler made the tag and then came up swinging. Murcer fought back and both benches emptied.

"He came in throwing an elbow," Oyler said after the game. "That's no way to play baseball."

"I had no intention of starting anything," Murcer said. "He jumped me, then I jumped him."

Then everybody was on top of both of us. I don't think anyone really got hit, and I don't think there's any hard teeing now."

After the scuffle broke up, Houk stood toe-to-toe with umpire Russ Goetz and argued that Oyler had dropped the ball in the collision at second. Goetz thumbed him out and Rice, the senior umpire, had to step between them before escorting Houk to the dugout.

Talbot low-bridged Pattin with two out in the Pilots' third, drawing a warning from Rice, and when Fernandez piled into McNertney in a futile attempt to score in the fourth, players streamed off both benches again.

But no punches were thrown and there were no further incidents as Pattin breezed to his fifth victory against one loss and the Yanks stumbled to their fifth straight setback.

Jay Johnstone drove in one run with a sacrifice fly and set up another with one of his two doubles, leading the Angels past the Senators, who have dropped six in a row.

Tom Murphy picked up his third victory in four decisions with eighth inning relief help from ageless Hoyt Wilhelm.

National League Roundup

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Gibson had a perfect game, but he won't go down on the list with Don Larsen, Jim Bunning and Sandy Koufax.

The reason is simple—Larsen, Bunning and Koufax pitched their perfect games; pitcher Gibson batted his.

The St. Louis ace collected three singles and a walk in four times at bat Monday night as the Cardinals defeated Los Angeles 6-2.

In the only other National League game, Pittsburgh edged San Francisco 4-3 and Chicago topped San Diego 2-0.

"I've had four hits in a game before, but I don't think I ever had a perfect night," Gibson said. "I should remember something like that, but I don't."

The 33-year-old right-handed hitter, who has hit one home run in each of the last two World Series, started his perfect game with a single in the third

In the fourth, Claude Osteen intentionally walked Steve Huntz with two out, loading the bases, and Gibson followed with a two-run single, increasing the Cardinals' lead to 3-0.

The pitcher led off the seventh with a single and scored, then walked in the eighth and stole second.

"Anytime they play behind me, I'm going to run," said Gibson, referring to the first baseman Ron Fairly's playing off the bag. "I don't believe in that stuff about being four runs ahead and you play nice. Four runs isn't that much of a lead."

It was for him, though, as he scattered seven hits for his fourth victory against two defeats. He also tied a major league record in the seventh inning when he struck out three Dodgers on nine pitches.

Willie Davis homered for Los Angeles in the eighth.

The Pirates rallied for two runs in the seventh, tying the Giants 3-3, then won in the ninth on Al Oliver's run-scoring single.

"We don't get paid for extra innings, and I don't like them," said the rookie, whose hit drove in Richie Hebner.

Also a rookie, Hebner had four hits in the game, including a un-scoring triple in the seventh. He now is the second leading hitter in the league with a .392 average.

Ferguson Jenkins pitched a five-hitter and drove in the only run he needed against San Diego. The run came in the second inning as Jenkins grounded into a force play following singles by Randy Hundley and Al Spangler and a walk to Adolfo Phillips.

Eight Men Convicted On Charges

WICHITA (AP)—Eight men were convicted Monday after seven weeks of trial in Sedgewick County District Court on charges of intimidating three anti-poverty program officials.

Convicted of third degree robbery were Vernon Pierce of Kansas City, Kan., and Samuel Hunt of Topeka.

Harold Cole of Wichita was acquitted on all charges. All nine were acquitted on three counts of extortion.

The robbery charge was based on the allegation that the men forced Andrew Gutierrez, a Kansas City anti-poverty official, to write checks totaling $622 to pay them consultation fees.

The extortion charges arose from the check-writing and from efforts to force the hiring of Harold Cole's brother, Al Cole, as a planner for the Wichita Model Cities program at a salary of $990 a month.

The offenses allegedly occurred at a meeting in a Wichita motel last Oct. 17.

The jury deliberated 17 hours in closing one of the longest trials in the county's history.

Maximum penalty for first degree robbery is 10 to 21 years in prison, for third degree robbery it is one to five years.

Judge Robert Stephan continued the bonds of $1,000 each and allowed the defense five days to request a new trial. A hearing on the request was set for May 23. If a new trial is denied, the defendants will be sentenced at that time.

Ready for Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP)—Trainer Johnny Longden can't get any information straight from his horse's mouth. But he picks up valuable tips sitting on the back of Majestic Prince.

"I guess I have a little edge by working my own horse," Longden said of the Kentucky Derby winner who goes after his second leg of the Triple Crown in Saturday's $150,000-added Preakness at Pimlico.

"By exercising my horse, I can tell by his actions when something is bothering him," said the former jockey, who won a record 6,032 races. "Then I can use my own judgment instead of relying on someone else. I get my information first hand, because I'm always there."

Longden recalls Majestic Prince once acted a bit sluggish during a workout at Santa Anita and a subsequent check showed he had a temperature of 102 degrees.

Right now, Longden reports Majestic Prince is coming up to the 1 3/16-mile Preakness in fine shape, but the trainer still appears to be on the defensive about his unbeaten 3-year-old colt.

Before Majestic Prince scored a neck victory over Arts and Letters in the Derby, some detractors claimed the California campaigner hadn't beaten much in his first seven starts. Since the Derby, Longden has been told repeatedly the Preakness field should be tougher.

While attending Majestic Prince at Pimlico's stables barn, Longden was asked if he thought the Preakness field would be harder to beat.

"What do you mean by that?" he said, obviously a bit miffed.

Later, while discussing probable Preakness starters he had not seen race, Longden suddenly interjected: "They tell me the top three-year-olds ran in the Derby."

Arts and Letters and Top Knight, fifth-place finisher in the Derby, will be back for another crack at Majestic Prince. Both Longden and Ray Metcalf, the trainer of Top Knight, think the top 2-year-old of 1968 will turn in a better performance this time.

"I expect him to do better," Longden said, "but he ran a good race in the Derby."

"I think you'll see a different horse," Metcalf said. "The track in Kentucky was harder than he likes. This track has more cushion."

Longden says he knows little about the other Preakness starters—Jay Ray, Captain Action, Al Hattab, Greengrass Greene and Glad's Flame—although he saw Glad's Flame on Saturday not long before the Preakness.

"I can't worry about the other horses," Longden said. "I just want to make sure my horse is ready. Even then, I can't run the race for him. He'll have to do it himself."

Snarl of Red Tape Sends Man to War

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Pvt. Harold C. Vennemann, 22, who has been drafted, must start on his way to Vietnam Wednesday.

He is leaving his 21-year-old wife, Clara, to take care of their four children on Army pay and allotments totaling about $200 a month. And she is expecting a fifth child in August.

Since he was drafted Dec. 2, Vennemann has lost a comfortable home, furniture and car and has had to move his family into a dreary, run-down apartment which costs $15 a month.

Vennemann was earning $600 a month as a sod larer and punch press operator when he was drafted. His property was mortgaged.

"We had a nice house, with nice furniture, but when people want their money and you don't have it, there's just nothing you can do," he said.

Having completed training at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., and Ft. Ord, Calif., the young private is home on leave before reporting to Ft. Lewis, Wash., for transportation to Vietnam.

"I wouldn't mind service," he said, surveying the bare apartment, "if it just wouldn't be so hard on my wife and kids. I just can't send enough money to Clara. It's just too hard on her."

Why was he drafted? "I think," said Alfred Talbot, a Red Cross official, "that Mr.

Vennemann received notices from his draft board which he did not return, and this is what got him drafted."

A clerk at the draft board office said Vennemann formerly was classified 3-A, entitled to deferment as a father living with his family. But a man must prove each year that he deserves 3-A.

Vennemann was changed to 1-A, eligible for the draft, on June, 1967, the clerk said, after he failed to return forms mailed to him.

"I have no record of his having been here," said the clerk, who asked that her name not be used. "Lots of records and things were mailed to him, and there were no replies."

Vennemann said he thought he had filled out all the papers sent to him, and he didn't know he could appeal the draft.

"When I first went into the Army an officer told me I never should have been drafted in the first place, Vennemann said. "He did everything he could to help me, too."

Vennemann said he had taken papers to his officers at Ft. Wood and Ft. Ord, seeking a hardship discharge, but "they didn't want to mess with the red tape."

The office of Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., was told about Vennemann's case Monday and an official there said an investigation would be made immediately.

Minibottle Liquor Sale Allowed Now

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—A new law permitting the sale of liquor in restaurants goes into effect in Utah today, but it's not that simple.

The law allows the sale of minibottles at special state liquor stores inside restaurants which obtain licenses. A minibottle contains about two ounces.

The state has a monopoly on the retail sale of liquor and earned net profits of more than $3.4 million in the last six months.

Here are the major provisions of the minibottle law:

—Restaurants would have to sell the liquor for the same price they paid the state for it. Hence, they cannot make a profit on it.

—The liquor would have to be stored and sold in a separate room not visible to meal patrons.

—The patron would have to buy his own liquor and bring it to his own table.

—A waiter or waitress could bring an ice bucket and cork-screw to a customer with a bottle of wine, but could not place the wine in a bucket, open it, or serve it.

—And in order to qualify for the privilege of going through the process of buying the booze, opening the bottle and mixing his own drink the patron would have to order a meal.

Or if he wants to streamline the process, the drinker can take his own bottle of liquor to the restaurant and order setups, including glasses, ice and mixer.

The new law was passed by the 1969 legislature after a proposed constitutional amendment to permit legal sale of liquor by the drink was defeated soundly at the polls in November.

The law, drafted by the group that led the campaign against liquor by the drink, received the support of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormons). The church is opposed to drinking and claims a majority of the state's population as members.

Supporters of the new law say it is designed to crack down on a number of private clubs which have for years been illegally selling liquor by the drink.

A group of fulltime state inspectors will begin work at the start of the next fiscal year in July. But many clubs seem unconcerned.

Most private clubs plan to continue operating as locker clubs, which means they can mix and serve liquor for customers.

Theoretically, every customer at a locker club has a bottle with his name on it in a special locker at the club. But in practice many clubs sell the liquor to the customer.

One more thing. The number of minibottle licenses will be limited to 75, but although the law is effective today not one restaurant has so far applied.

Their couldn't. The application forms haven't been printed yet.

Cops With Their Own Chaplain

Editor's note: By day, the Rev. Robert Asmuth is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Fort Myers, Fla. By night, he is a police chaplain who takes the word of God to the night people. An AP writer accompanied the Rev. Mr. Asmuth on one of his weekly tours in a squad car.

By ERIC SHARP
Associated Press Writer
FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Many married men have their weekly night out and the Rev. Robert Asmuth is no exception. He spends every Friday night in a police squad car, taking the word of God to the street corners and ministering to the spiritual needs of his police pals.

To these pals, Asmuth is simply "The Rev." Chaplain to the Fort Myers police force the past five years. Asmuth has become familiar with violence, screams in the night and flashing police lights.

Last week was no exception. The squad car radio alerted Asmuth to the trouble. Moments later the preacher, billy club in hand, scrambled out of the car. Seconds later he was comforting a man who wept over the body of his slain brother.

"The Rev joined us originally because policemen can't always attend church on Sunday morning, because we need help with potential suicides and wayward juveniles and because the image of the policeman was steadily declining," said Police Chief Burl Underhill.

"Now, we wouldn't want to be without him. We sometimes tend to lose sight of the fact that we can't leave God out of our plans."

Although he could spend his hours in the First Presbyterian Church where he is pastor, the 39-year-old Asmuth says he prefers to spend every Friday night and many weekday hours riding the city in squad cars, helping policemen with their personal problems and professional duties.

"Policemen work long hours, don't get paid much and often have problems they don't want to talk over with their superiors," the minister said. "So, a lot of times an officer will ask me to ride with him in the squad car for a while to talk. He gets it off his chest, and I'll help with any advice I can give."

He has taken guns out of the hands of cornered suspects and talked potential suicides out of pulling the trigger.

He said his wife accepted his unusual after-hours activities, even though she sometimes feared it could leave three children fatherless.

York Rite Degree To Ralph H. Cook

Ralph Henry Cook, 518 East 12th, has been awarded the designation of Knight of the York Cross of Honor. The degree is the highest in the York Rite of Freemasonry.

Cook served as Master of Sedalia Lodge of Masons in 1968; High Priest of Sedalia Chapter, Royal Arch Masons in 1967; Master of Sedalia Council, Royal and Select Masters in 1967, and Commander of St. Omer Commandery, Knights Templar, in 1968.

Study Party Restructure In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ideas and recommendations for restructuring the Democratic party and changing the method of choosing national delegates is to be discussed Tuesday before a party task force.

The national committee's task force already has 12 persons lined up for the day-long hearing. Larry Carp, a St. Louis area lawyer co-ordinating the hearing said the 12 represent all factions of the party in Arkansas, Missouri and Kansas.

Sen. George McGovern of North Dakota set up the task force, headed by Dr. Aaron Henry of Mississippi. Members of the committee come from Tennessee, Maine, Maryland and California.

Resolution Is Subject of Consultation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says he will seek passage next month of a resolution calling on President Nixon to consult with the Senate before sending U.S. troops into any future Vietnam-like situation.

The resolution, which would not be binding on the President, would put the Senate on record as saying the chief executive should not send American forces into fighting abroad without prior consultation unless national security was directly involved.

The action, sponsored by long-time Vietnam critic Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., is an outgrowth of criticism against President Lyndon B. Johnson's use of the Tonkin Gulf resolution to justify his expansion of the U.S. role in Vietnam.

That resolution approved Johnson's ordering American air raids against North Vietnam following alleged attacks on U.S. destroyers in the Tonkin Gulf in 1964.

Mansfield said passage would help "restore the powers and the responsibility which the Senate has permitted to erode away willingly."

"It would establish a partnership in foreign affairs between the legislative and executive branches," he said. "It would not encroach on the President's powers in any situation calling for instant action. It would not diminish the power of the presidency, it would give it added strength."

Mansfield insisted that his decision to ask for action next month on the proposal involves no attack on Nixon's presidential prerogatives.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois was not so sure that passage of the resolution by the Democratic controlled Senate would not be interpreted as an attack on Nixon's prerogatives as Commander-in-Chief.

But Dirksen said opposing it would involve a "difficult decision" since he shares the common yearning among senators for a greater voice in foreign policy decisions under the Constitution's advise and consent clause.

The resolution has the powerful backing of Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee.
